

Hello,

We are Yochay and Avital, and we are researchers at a university and at a college.

We are interested in hearing the opinions and points-of-view of children about various subjects; what do children think and feel about their lives?

We are interested in whether or not and how children are satisfied with different aspects in their lives (school, friends, family and more). We want to learn about your lives from you; what is important to you as children; what makes you feel happy. We aren't asking parents or teachers – rather children themselves. What do they think about their lives and what satisfies them? What doesn't? What do they like to do?

To do this, we will meet with children for a group activity. During the activity each girl or boy will be asked to create a work of art that signifies one week in their lives, and we will then have a discussion in the group about the topics that arise.

In this activity there are no right or wrong answers. We want to hear about your choices, opinions and feelings. You do not have to do the art project or certain parts of it, and you don't have to answer any questions you don't want to answer.

At the end of the activity, we wish to photograph your artwork before you take it home with you. We promise that any information that arises or that you share with us will remain confidential, meaning no one will know what your answers were.

At the end of the activity, you will receive a small gift.

Thank you,
Avital and Yochay
